KINOKO

The Kinoko side table is an ode to the authenticity of nature, as well as the fusion of traditional craftsmanship and digital production. The attractive effects of nature are inherent in its colors, shapes, and the feelings associated with it. These impressions are reproduced in the abstract forms and materials of Kinoko, with the intention of making the viewer feel them. The interaction of different materials and textures creates reflections on the surface of the table top, and the play of depth affects that, constantly changing due to the viewing angles or light. Despite its unusual shape and the combination of atypical materials, the object's unobtrusiveness conveys a sense of calm and closeness to nature in the room.
